Homeschooling Through High School

Diane Kummer HSLDA Highschool Consultant

Homeschooling Kindergarten is one thing; the thought of homeschooling high school terrifies many parents. Diane Kummer is the HSLDA high school consultant and we are blessed that she will come to our convention this year and share her vast knowledge with us. Want to learn more about homeschooling through high school? Diane will help you go from panic to peace.

To come and hear Diane, register to attend the CAPE-NM Homeschool Convention April 19-21, 2018 at Legacy Church. Click here to register or get more details.

Keeping ALL the Hands Busy by Cathy Heckendorn

I remember the first day of our homeschool adventure. I had purchased a set of Kindergarten books for our daughter, set them up on the shelf when they arrived, and did everything I could imagine to build up the anticipation of our "first day of school." When that day finally arrived, Rebecca was dressed in her new "school outfit" and we pulled the books off the shelf, opened the pages, and began our adventure together. It was then, that the 3-year-old and baby BOTH wanted attention. WHAT?!?!

I had prepared for OUR first day of school, but I had not anticipated what to do with the other little hands in our home. For the first few years of our adventure, that became one of my biggest challenges - keeping ALL the hands busy.

Used Curriculum Sale

Do you have used curriculum you want to sell? Sign up for the CAPE-NM used curriculum sale. You can sign up ONLY with convention registration. A table is only $25 and if you have a couple of years of curriculum to sell you can easily clear that amount. To register for convention, click here. Don't forget to check the box for used curriculum. Then on Thursday, April 19th, bring everything you want to sell.

For those interested in finding a great deal, the used curriculum sale is Thursday April 19th, from 4:00-5:15. Come prepared to pay cash. Since these are homeschool families, credit cards are not an option. Convention Registration is required to attend.
