

Are you finishing the race?

You have been working towards this goal for years. Savoring every last moment knowing that this race is about to end. Watching your pride and joy grow into the person God has created them to be. Well, the wait for graduation registration is now over. And before you jump to what is next take a moment to reflect. Do you remember what your first year of homeschooling was like? Did you feel overwhelmed and wonder if you actually made the right decision to homeschool? Would permanently ruin your child?

You made it through to this amazing time. Now you are ready to launch your child into the world. Is there someone starting the journey that you could encourage and share your years of wisdom with? If you want to give back, then please contact info@cape-nm.org and let us know. If you are ready to register for graduation, please go to www.cape-nm.org/events-convention/homeschool-convention/graduation/.
