Advanced

We are so excited for the 2025 CAPE-NM Homeschool Convention. The theme of this year's convention is "Teaching the Next Generation." As parents and homeschoolers, we believe in the biblical principle emphasizing the responsibility of parents to train their children in the way they should go, with the hope that when they are old they will not depart from it. Parents are encouraged to model the behavior and values they want their children to live by. Our scripture, 2 Timothy 2:2, "...Now teach these truths to other trustworthy people who will be able to pass them on to others," gives us another command to pass on God's works and commandments. As we disciple and train our children to love the Lord and His ways, we are teaching them so that future generations might know and trust in Him. In today's world, it is imperative that we purposely teach our children to value God's truths, as there are many worldviews competing for the hearts of people.

We pray that our 2025 workshops will provide you with a sense of hope and purpose as you are faithful in fulfilling your God-given role to train up your children.

You're not alone,
The CAPE Board of Directors, the Convention Committee, and Countless Volunteers

CAPE is YOU!

CAPE-NM is the acronym for Christian Association of Parent Educators of New Mexico. Homeschool families across New Mexico have united to support one another by supporting this nonprofit corporation that makes up CAPE-NM. Volunteer families who love the Lord, their families, and home education serve as a Board of Directors.

CAPE is dedicated to serving God by providing Biblical encouragement and information on home education resources to interested parents, legislators, and officials. As God provides, the ministry of CAPE will include hosting the annual Homeschool Convention and Curriculum Fair, Fall Family Retreat, the CAPE website, CAPE at the Capitol (meeting, greeting, and blessing the legislators), Back-to-Homeschool Picnic, and supporting the many local homeschool groups in New Mexico.

CAPE is also dedicated to defending, protecting, and preserving home education and encouraging homeschool families to prayerfully exercise their citizenship. CAPE scrutinizes federal legislative proposals and monitors state issues concerning home education. We maintain an e-mail network to “get the word out” quickly when action is necessary.

Donations to CAPE, a 501 (c)(3) non-profit Christian organization, are tax-deductible because the primary purpose of this ministry is educational.

Support

Perhaps the greatest reason many homeschool families attend convention is the opportunity to connect with other homeschool families. The CAPE convention provides a warm and inviting atmosphere where homeschool parents can meet and encourage each other. If you are hurting or feel overwhelmed and would like to talk to a veteran homeschool mom or dad, come by the CAPE table. We will be happy to offer you support. If we can't help, we will point you to someone who can answer your questions.

SUPPORT GROUPS

Do you lead a support group or co-op? Do you belong to a group? We would love to add your group to our list! Please come by the CAPE Table in the foyer and share your information! Thank you! groups@cape-nm.org

For eight years, she and other families battled for homeschool freedom and established landmark homeschool legislation in South Carolina. In 1990, she founded the South Carolina Association of Independent Home Schools (SCAIHS) and served as its president for ten years. Zan loves to empower parents as they answer their God-given calling to homeschool. She is an inspirational speaker and author. For sixteen years, Zan worked with Christian publishers developing homeschool curriculum and resources. She is now a consultant with BJU Press Homeschool. Zan's greatest privilege in life was homeschooling their three children through high school. Zan is the host of the Zan Tyler Podcast, sponsored by BJU Press Homeschool. Join Zan and a special guest each week for real encouragement, engaging stories, and practical wisdom for surviving and thriving on the homeschool journey.

Bill has three children and two grandchildren and lives in Colorado.

Meet the Workshop SPEAKERS

SANDY CANNON has been home educating her children and helping other parents to educate their children in Albuquerque since 2003. Three of her four children are employed adults! The fourth will graduate in 2026. Sandy has led co-ops, mentored mothers, mentored R4 Robotics students, and taught independent classes throughout her home educating journey. She has been the director of the ABQ Regency Ball since 2016 and currently offers a variety of classes each semester through PLANT, Inc., including Exploring Classics, US Constitution, Math Quest, and How the World Works. In addition to being a Constitution Coach for Patriot Academy, she is also part of the team for STUFF, “Standing Tall United for Freedom,” which is a week-long civics program for home educated students in New Mexico.

CINDY DUELL has been homeschooling since 2000, when she figured she would teach her oldest to read at home and wait until first grade to find the right school for him. Guess what – home was the right school! Since then she has been homeschooling and raising six amazing children, supporting her husband’s business and his ministry as a church elder, and helping to lead their local homeschool support group. Five of their six children have graduated from their homeschool, and Cindy has graduated to become "Marmee" to eleven grandkiddos. She and Shawn serve on the board of Arizona Families for Home Education, where Cindy has been the Convention Director since 2020.

ROGER AND SUE FARR home educated their three children from K to university while living and working around the world. Now, the Farr parents live as Titus 2 role models and pray for, encourage, and advise-when-asked those same three, now 30-somethings, as they learn in their marriages and in child training. Roger is a chemical engineer, and Sue was an urban planner. They both learned how people learn and became better teachers. They began home education to better facilitate living overseas, learning new cultures, and living by biblical principles. Authors of a 2024 book Finishing Well, their greatest joys come when helping others find their “Sweet Spots” of God’s unique design, God-given experiences, and God-driven passion to honor Him. The Farris now live on a small Texas farm and travel internationally sharing about finishing life well, plants, bees, and Jesus, not necessarily in that order.

Meet the Workshop SPEAKERS

JASON GATES is part software engineer and part speech and debate coach. He founded the New Mexico Forensics Club to train homeschoolers in the skills that are necessary to fostering open and honest dialogue—the ability to: communicate your views in an eloquent, effective, winsome, and gracious manner; boldly persuade others and motivate them to action; know exactly what it is you believe and why you believe it; think critically, research, analyze, and draw well-reasoned conclusions; ask probing questions to dig beneath the surface to the root of the issue; etc. He offers workshops and seminars throughout the year to pass the skill-building activities we do in our club meetings on to parents, so you can incorporate them into your regular family activities. Jason and his wife, Hannah, homeschool their five children in Albuquerque.

JOHN & CATHY HECKENDORN began as high school sweethearts and have now been married for almost 38 years. They have been blessed with 4 children and welcomed into their hearts 3 in-laws and 3 grandchildren (and one more on the way). John was convicted to homeschool, but Cathy reluctantly followed, kicking and screaming that she “never wanted to do this.” They have since graduated all four of their children. John is a commercial lender, and, together with their family, they run a registered Angus Ranch. John enjoys spending time with his family working or playing games, studying cattle genetics, reading, discussing creation/evolution, and doing the bidding of his grandchildren. When she isn’t helping with ranch chores, Cathy enjoys being with her children and grandchildren, reading, quilting, encouraging other moms, and sipping tea. They serve in their local church, lead the Heart2Heart Homeschool Mom Support Group in the East Mountain area, and encourage parents through seminars and workshops whenever they have the opportunity.

MONICA IRVINE is the President and creator of The Etiquette Factory, Co.-Founder of FUNdamentals4Kids and a retired Homeschool Mom. After graduation from high school, she obtained a BSN at the University of New Mexico and has worked as a floor nurse at UNMH Pediatrics for the last 16 years. She worked full-time at the hospital for 7 years, but chose to go down to two days a month as soon as God blessed her and her husband with children. She has been married to Brad Miszkief for over 10 years and together they have four beautiful children, ages 9 to 2 years old. Brad and Joanna own a small farm where they raise animals, have a large garden, and homestead. Zan Tyler: Homeschooling: A God-Centered Revival That Begins in Your Living Room

Answering God's call to teach your children at home can be exciting at first, but it's easy to lose sight of the vision when you find yourself overwhelmed by the demands of the homeschooling life: teaching phonics, preparing transcripts, refereeing fights, and—oh, by the way—making dinner too. But in the midst of the madness, we must constantly remind ourselves that our work matters because we're building God's kingdom! Come hear Zan Tyler share from history and God's Word. And catch a glimpse of how God is using your family—and the homeschool movement—to usher in spiritual, educational, and family revival in our nation.

Bill Jack: WHATEVER!

"Whatever is the meaning of life?" "Whatever happens when one dies?" "Whatever is your highest value?"-- questions that demand more than a "Whatever!" answer. The "Whatever!" answer of Secular thinking dampens and even squelches serious thought and attempts at engaged conversation in our culture. The "Whatever!" of Secularism even invades the church. Rather than be discouraged, take heart in God's command in Deuteronomy 12:32.

Cathy Heckendorn: Homeschooling for the Heart

When you're done homeschooling and the dust clears, what is the one thing that will matter most? Grades? Curriculum choices? Career path? When it's all said and done, isn't the one thing you want most the one thing you truly can't control—to spend eternity in heaven with your children? Since we can't control that, what are we to do? How can we be content pointing them to Christ every day while not becoming a Bible thumper? Join Cathy as she shares the victories and heartache of parenting in the real world and learning to let go and let HIM take the lead with our children.

Lt. Kyle Woods & Det. Kathryn Lucero: Raising Children in a Digital World

Parenting children in today's online world can seem like an overwhelming task. Wrapping your house in tin foil and going "off the grid" is unlikely to produce desirable results. Trusting tech giants to have your children's best interest in mind is equally unwise. Lieutenant Kyle Woods and Detective Kathryn Lucero of the Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office have investigated internet crimes against children since 2014. They offer real-world advice for today's parents from both a law enforcement and a parenting perspective. This workshop will discuss common online trends, social media pitfalls, pornography, and current resources.

Joanna Miszkief: How to Build a Strong Moral Foundation in Your Children

As homeschool parents, we are often concerned with our child's educational foundation. We wonder such things as, "Am I teaching everything they will need to succeed in this world?" However, there is more to education than just teaching academics, a LOT more. Have you ever wondered what is the best way to teach moral truths in such a way that your child makes them his own? The Lord has called us to raise up children and to train them in the way they should go. This includes teaching and instructing in topics such as purity, faithfulness, finances, technology, pornography, apologetics, and so much more! This workshop is designed with three things in mind. First, we will brainstorm a list of things that we feel are important to teach our children. Second, I will talk about Moral Maturity and what age is best to start teaching these topics. Finally, and this is where I will spend most of my time, we will discuss the HOW. We all know we should teach these things but struggle with when and how to teach them. This is especially intimidating with the hard topics such as pornography or sexual purity. In this section I will be covering some VERY effective and engaging ways to cover even the trickiest of subjects in a way that your child will learn and take the messages to heart! Come and learn how you can be the most instrumental part of developing your child's Moral Foundation in a way that will help them to bring glory to the Lord!

Bill Jack: Counterfeit Reality

The biggest and most enduring Counterfeit Reality of all time is most cleverly foisted upon people through film. See how moviemakers convey a secular worldview to the public...in the blink of an eye! Keep in mind Colossians 2:8, and keep focused on Bill Jack's media examples and use of technological illusions. Otherwise, you may lose sight of True Reality.

Lanny & Marilyn Johnson: Dinosaurs-What We Do Know and Don't Know About Dinosaurs

We can study the fossils of dinosaurs and come up with a hypothesis (an educated guess) about their color, how they acted or behaved, and even what they ate. Today, most of what is being taught about dinosaurs is taught as truth, not as a hypothesis. With an emphasis on distinguishing between imagination and observational science, subjects include fossils (what they can tell us), artwork versus fact, looking at some dinosaurs and current stories about them, and what sharp claws and teeth mean.

Joe Tyler discusses the key issues dads face as we strive to instill a Christ-centered vision in our sons. Joe addresses the cultural pressures on our young men and shares practical advice for countering the culture and instilling a vision of purity in both our sons and daughters. John Kinzer-Noah Webster College: George Washington Carver: Scientist, Educator, Man of God

In this workshop we will consider the life of George Washington Carver, the famous "Scientist of Tuskegee." Born a slave in 1864, Carver faced every obstacle in his life, but when he was 10 years old, he became a follower of Christ and that changed everything in his perspective and understanding of life. By his faith in God, Carver overcame bankruptcy, prejudice, many difficulties and eventually became a great scientist. Henry Ford believed Carver was the greatest living scientist, perhaps even greater than Thomas Edison. We will see how his experiences, learning from nature, his keen powers of observation, and a life of prayer helped him through hard work and diligence and resulted in a very fruitful impact with his life. Materials about biblical principles, teaching science to your students, the life of Carver, and other materials will be available.

Zan Tyler: Ten Lessons I Learned on the Way to Jail

When Zan Tyler was threatened with jail in 1984 for teaching her son at home, she was forced to count the costs of homeschooling and decide if it was really worth it. Zan learned powerful lessons about fighting for freedom, family, and faith—lessons we need again today! Our nation is at a crossroads where the liberties we've often taken for granted are at stake. We are one lawsuit, bad law, or treaty away from seeing our right to homeschool erode, and we must all work to preserve our freedoms while intentionally raising up a new generation of freedom fighters. This session will encourage and equip you with powerful principles to share the families you serve.

Workshop Descriptions-Friday

Cindy Duell: Homeschooling Well: Mission, Maturity, and Mercy

We all have those moments when we wonder what we're doing, why we're doing it, and how we can possibly know whether we're doing it right. Homeschooling is not something that most of us were trained or educated for – and some of us were surprised to find ourselves doing it at all! – so how do we know when we're on the right course? What does it mean to "homeschool well"? Let's use the concepts of Mission, Maturity, and Mercy as our guideposts, for our students and for ourselves!

Monica Irvine: How Do I Stop Worrying About My Kids So I Can Have Peace?

Parents, there literally is a process and a plan to help us stop worrying so much about our children. I promise there is. We can live with more peace and hope despite our current circumstances and even despite our children's current choices. Come and listen as Monica discusses what she learned years ago that helped her so much. No, it's not going to stop all the worrying, but it will reduce your worry and give you tools that will allow you to take action steps so that you can feel peace. Don't miss this. It truly will help.

Sandy Cannon: Highschool & Beyond

I thought the biggest homeschooling milestone would be getting all of my children reading. As high school approached, I realized I was sadly misinformed. My three adult children have all taken different paths. Their high school years were opportunities to prepare them for the unknown. This workshop is designed to help you navigate some of the basics of high school and what comes after.

Too often, we fear we won't have answers to their tough questions. Be encouraged. Learn four killer questions that will help to destroy the Wizards' secular thinking that is encasing the minds of friends, relatives, and others. Learn to destroy the Wizards' sloppy, secular arguments without destroying the person.

Lanny & Marilyn Johnson: Dinosaurs and the Bible

Evolution teaches that the dinosaurs died out 65 to 70 million years ago and that man has only been around for 200,000 to possibly 3 million years. Therefore, according to evolution, man and dinosaurs never lived together. This presentation challenges that idea using descriptions of dinosaurs in the Bible and other evidence of man and dinosaurs living at the same time. A real favorite with all ages.

The presenters completed official homeschooling 15 years ago. Now, their three 30-somethings are training their own children, and many life lessons are so clear to all of us now! Join us as we, Roger and Sue, share valuable life lessons our entire family learned from homeschooling, living internationally, serving God, gaining the most from universities and graduate schools, successes and failures, internships, military service, courtship, marriage, ministry, missionary service, and child training. Through it all, God has been gracious to teach us as individuals to know His love and to honor Him. We pray that sharing our lessons learned will encourage, inspire, and motivate you on your own homeschooling journey.

Bill Jack: The Biblical Basis for True Authority

What is a Christian to do when evil seems to be winning? What is the biblical response—especially when one is a student in a secular institution—when a person in position of authority begins to further evil and avenge good? How does one maintain respect for the position of authority without obeying evil commands?

10:00-11:00 AM Session 1

Zan Tyler: The Unexpected Adventure of Serving Others

Do you want to energize your homeschool? Providing your children with creative opportunities to serve others is just what you need. In Zan's 21 years of homeschooling, nothing amazed her more than the adventures and blessings her family encountered by serving others together. In this session, Zan Tyler will show you how to build service projects into your school days and everyday lives. She'll also share practical service ideas. Be prepared to see your children come alive as they walk out the second most important command that God has given us by serving others in both small and big ways.

John & Cathy Heckendorn: Marriage Matters....Well, Duh!

I bet if asked what our most important relationship is, after God, we would say our marriage. Yet, how many of us put most of our effort into maintaining that relationship? With the demands of work, raising children, homeschooling, volunteer service, extended family, and friends, who has time? Right? John and Cathy like to say they are the poster children for how to take a struggling marriage and let God transform it. Come spend an hour laughing, crying, and maybe even nodding your head as they share some of the struggles and triumphs of making your marriage matter while you are in the trenches.

Steve Thornberg: Fun Ways to Include Biblical Creation in Your Curriculum

Incorporating biblical creation into your curriculum can be intimidating for both newbie and veteran homeschoolers but is essential to provide a solid foundation for trusting every word of the Bible. In this presentation, ideas of how to seamlessly incorporate creation into your curriculum will be discussed. Easy, intuitive approaches that fit your style of teaching provide your children with the foundation they need to be able to counter the evolutionary lies and believe in and defend biblical creation.

Jason Gates: Interrogation: The Art of Effective Questioning

Want to teach your kids to drive you crazy by asking really annoying questions? You do, actually, because your kids will frequently run into unclear communication both outside and inside the church. Part of our responsibility as parents is to ensure they're well-equipped to stand firm for truth, while helping others to understand it, and this workshop will help you help them build some of the skills needed to do just that. We'll talk through how you can use different kinds of questions effectively in dialogue to either clarify something, make a point, or redirect a conversation.

Zan Tyler: The Power of Positive Words and Conversation

Conversation is a potent tool that carries with it the power of life and death, and lays the foundation for deep and meaningful relationships. Conversation is an essential tool in discipling your children. Research even indicates that conversation increases intelligence in children and teens. In this workshop Zan Tyler reveals how you can utilize the simple—and free—tool of conversation to help your children become more motivated learners. Learn strategies you can take home and implement tomorrow to increase joy in learning and minimize conflict in your family, too. You'll come away convinced that conversation IS core curriculum.

Bill Jack: Where's Waldo

Perched high on the sides of the Alps in northern Italy, a small band of believers faced extinction. This remnant of committed Christians sprang from a group of twelfth century Christian laymen in southern France and eventually sent rippling effects around the world. What made this small band such a force and a threat to the established church? What can modern-day Christians learn from them?

Roger & Sue Farr: Living by Principles

Some people make decisions because of how they feel at a particular moment. Others ask their friends or just go along with whatever the crowd yells. Still others wait until a good answer is obvious and then jump that direction. All of that is exhausting, frustrating, and non-transferable. God designed the best way to make decisions: live according to biblical principles. Roger and Sue will explore how to find godly principles in Scripture, how to make those into practical boundaries, and how to apply those in daily life. We will be clear, direct, practical, and positive.

Joe Tyler: The Impact of Social Media on Our Daughters

We are witnessing an alarming rise in the rates of depression and suicidal tendencies among teenage girls today. Is social media to blame? Join Joe Tyler as he takes a deep dive into the world of social media, examining the challenges that young girls face including body image issues, cyberbullying, and unrealistic beauty standards. With constant connectivity to smart phones, the threats of social media are lurking everywhere, even in places as seemingly innocent as chatrooms in Bible apps. Now is the time to help your daughters develop a biblical self-image, a vibrant faith, and practical strategies for successfully navigating the dangers of the digital age.

Bill Jack: Seven Habits of Highly Suppressive People

Why do people reject the reliability of the Bible? It is not the common objections that people give. Rather, it is because they "suppress the truth in unrighteousness." (Romans 1:18) Christians should be able to answer those objections. Christians should also be able to recognize the seven habits that people develop in suppressing the truth which are listed in Romans 1:21-23. Come see these seven habits come to life through interviews with non-Christians on a college campus. Learn how you, too, can give a defense of your faith in gentleness and reverence. (1 Peter 3:15)

Monica Irvine: Schedules...Helping Our Children to Be Happy

Imagine your children waking up with an alarm clock, making their bed, completing their morning hygiene duties, saying their morning personal prayers, and completing their morning chores without any verbal reminders from you. Imagine your family having the time for family devotion, family projects, family fun time, one-on-one time with your children, date night for you and your spouse, daily quiet time, and chore time. Imagine reducing your errands by 50%! How much time would that give you to do other things? Parents, these things are possible and possible without unreasonable efforts. They are possible when you place your family on a schedule and take advantage of the gift of routines.

Zan Tyler: Life-Giving Lessons From Noah's Ark for Your Homeschool Journey

As a young mom, Zan Tyler's encounter with powerful truths from the story of Noah's ark (Hebrews 11) defined and empowered her 21-year homeschool journey. The lessons she learned kept her afloat through times of fatigue, self-doubt, loneliness, and persecution, and taught her to trust God with her family's welfare. Noah's ark has amazing implications for us as homeschoolers today, even down to the materials used in its construction. And, like Noah, we live in an age that is often hostile towards God. In this workshop, Zan will share seven principles that can give you vision, energy, and staying power for your own homeschool voyage in these perilous times.
